

A Blog by the Science Prefect!

Hi, my name is Emma and I am 2018-2019's Science Prefect! Recently, a survey has gone out to the teachers and pupils of The Downley School. It asks if they like Science, if they are enjoying Science as much as last year and many more questions. As we have lots of new teachers, we are also giving them a survey to ensure that they are also enjoying Science! This year, our bi-annual STEM week will be taking place- as everyone thoroughly enjoyed it last time. Keep updated to find out what this year's theme is. Mrs Fyfe and I are also planning lots more fun science activities throughout the year.

This year is a very special year for Science at The Downley School, as this year we have received a PSQM Gold Award for our science!!! This shows that our Science teaching at The Downley School is exceptional. As well as a STEM week, our school is also entering The Big Science Event Oxford 2019. As part of this competition will be having a competition in school to see who will go through to the finals. As well as this, a new Science wall has gone up in the school for all the pupils and teachers. I will keep you updated on Science here at The Downley School!
